The principles of the Democrats are well set fourth in those of their candidate! What they are, the Lord only knows.

It is assurted by some of our exchanges, that Hancock is so vain of his elegant proportions, that he netually envelops them in a gracefully fitting corset. The Irish of Indianapolis, have called

He was an attendant upon the Convention, and in subsequent allusion to the effect of Convention, upon the public mind, holds the following language:

That the Republicans were greatly stared at the outcome of the Chicago Convention and the Democrats corresponding by depressed, was openly apparent to every one. The attempt to blacken the character of Representative Garfield on account of Oaks Ames' secret transfer to him of ten shares of Credit Mckiller stock and his of Oaks Ames' secret transfer to him of ten shares of Credit Modifier stock and his $5,000 retainer for definaling Decoper, is condemned by all honest and sensible Democrats because they know there was neither dishonesty or official impropriety in Garfield's action. A committee of Congress ecomposed of three Republicans and two Democrats unonimously exhoustrated him from all blame. Attorney General illack, one of the most robust of Bourbons, certifies that of his own knowledge, he knows Garfield to be entirely imacent, and the half-rebel Washington Copillal gives its party friends notice that they must funt some other cause of attack if they hope to deficat Garfield. The fact is our candidate is not only known to be as our candidate is not only known to be a great, homest hearied generous, and noble-animeled christian gentleman. There is no cant, duplicity, or pretense about James A. Garfield, but as loy and man, he was and is, everywhere known to be as pure and transparent as the noonday sun.
